WILSON WANTS JAPAN TO WAIT

Temperature Is Normal and If
It Continues So Two Days
More All Will Be Well.

Rome, April 18.—The consoling news that emanated from the Vatican tonight was that Pope Pius had passed three days without fever, that his general condition was progressing favorably, and that if these conditions continued for two days more, His Holiness would be considered convalescent and the bulletins of the physicians discontinued.

Although this information came from the physicians in attendance upon the Pope and was confirmed by Cardinal Merry Del Val, the papal secretary of state, it did not prevent persons of pessimistic tendencies from continuing to shake their heads dubiously and invent further ailments for the pontiff. Tonight they declare pneumonia and settle consumption.

When Dr. Amiel visited the Pope shortly before midnight he found his temperature at 97.2. He said that the condition of the patient was satisfactory and that he was finding great relief from his coughing by taking a soothing liquid of ammonia flavored with anise seed. After Dr. Amiel's visit, Pope Pius went to sleep. His breathing was audible in the room on

R & G Rustless Corsets

R & G followed the abrupt lines of the crinoline lady of the sixties. It filled the need of the bustle of the eighties. It answers the simple call of the sinuous, graceful lines of today. The R & G artists have designed so many corsets for so many women that no trick of line, or seam or boning escapes them. Over this corset shown here the gowns and suits of the spring will be at home, for the corset was built for the new fashion lines.

MAKING A HARD FIGHT FOR THIS YARD

Board of Trade and Other Bodies Interested in Securing Construction of Tender.

Much interest is apparent in the bid which the Portsmouth navy yard has made for the construction of a torpedo destroyer tender. The board of trade has already taken the matter up with the New Hampshire delegation at Washington. Mayor Badger is in communication with Senator Hails and Congressman Reed while the influential men have kept the wires hot to the best friend the yard ever had, Senator Gallinger. The Portsmouth Progressive Club as a body have got busy and the organizing certainly shows the spirit in the following telegram to the New Hampshire delegation at Washington, sent today:

Headquarters Progressive Club,
Portsmouth, N. H., April 19, 1913.
New Hampshire Delegation,
Washington, D. C.

My Dear Sirs:

Above named club respectfully represent that bids for the construction of a torpedo boat destroyer tender are to be opened at the yard department on Monday next, with Portsmouth naval station as a bidder. By unanimous voice we respectfully ask your personal presence in our interest at said department, at said time. Most respectfully submitted,

DR. S. F. A. PHILIPPIER

Chairman
C. Wm. Taylor, Jr., Secretary.

PORTSMOUTH WILL PROBABLY BE CHOSEN

As the Next Meeting Place of the Spanish War Veterans of the State.

Portsmouth will undoubtedly be chosen as the next place for the meeting of the convention of the United Spanish War Veterans of the department of New Hampshire.

The delegation which goes from Portsmouth is representatives of the Schley Camp will work toward this end at the convention to be held at Keene, N. H., on Fast Day, April 24.

A rousing meeting is promised and it is said that all records, as regards attendance will be broken.

One feature of the convention is the election of Department Commander.

The office at present is held by Guiney S. Doyle, U. S. M. C., of the local camp. Mr. Doyle says he will not be a candidate for re-election this year, and it is said that First Sergeant William H. Stevens, U. S. M. C., in charge of the marine detachment, U. S. S. Southerly will be best fitted for the office, and will in all probability be elected.

Sgt. Stevens has served for the past year as Adjutant in the New Hampshire department and is very popular among all of the New Hampshire vets. His splendid record, his staunchness and tact in performing the duties of his present office, all stand as further argument for his election as Department Commander.

A large automobile has been chartered to convey the local delegates from Portsmouth to Keene.

Among those composing the motor party will be Department Commander Doyle, Chief of Staff, Harry W. Foster; Department Adjutant, W. H. Stevens; Department Quartermaster, Patrick Kelley; Department Chaplain, George O. Lane; Past Commander, Owen J. Mooney, and Quartermaster Sergeant, F. W. M. Pepple, U. S. M. C., delegate from Schley Camp No. 4.

LOSES HIS LICENSE

The board of license commissioners has revoked the first class license of Fred C. Sheldon, proprietor of the Sheldon house, formerly Thayer's Hotel in Littleton, on charges of selling liquor in other than bona-fide guests in no license town.

HIGH SCHOOL BALL TEAM NEEDS SUPPORT

The high school base ball team are very badly affected by the recent order of the Board of Public Works that no tickets would be allowed to be sold on the play grounds this season as they depend on the sale of tickets to pay their guarantee for the ball games.

A meeting of the Athletic Council of the school was held to discuss the matter and it was decided to have season tickets at 50 cents each, in this way more, it is hoped, enough money to pay the necessary expenses of the team.

HALF MASTED FLAG

This seems to be the only solution of the matter and this will work out alright as every alumnus and business man will gladly contribute 50 cents to keep school sports on the proper level. The members of the athletic association will start selling tickets at once and everybody should give the boys a lift. The season tickets will admit to all the games, some four of which are to be played at the play grounds before school closes.

Any time you want to take a drive just telephone 2, and Bishop will do the rest.

A STATE ORNITHOLOGIST
COULD DO GOOD WORK

Concord, April 18.—The bill to create the office of state ornithologist is apparently meeting with favor, and the indications are that it will be passed and become a law.

The bill is drawn along similar lines of those which have been passed by other states which have had the services of state ornithologists for a number of years, and is not for the purpose, as many have supposed, or securing collections of the birds and mammals of the state, but is, on the contrary, for the purpose of studying the habits in relation to food and their destruction of insects which are of a harmful nature and which have increased to a marked degree since the birds, because of the lack of uniform state laws have been eliminated.

It will be the duty of the state ornithologist to ascertain to the fullest particular the habitual food of the insectivorous birds, to learn their haunts and habits and to impart this information by lectures and other means to the farmers and others who will be benefited.

It will also be a part of his work to aid as far as possible in securing uniform laws in the states which will protect the song and insectivorous birds.

For the lack of such laws the feathered songsters and other birds which have added to the attractiveness of the woodlands and fields have as far as some species are concerned been well nigh exterminated. This is especially true of the robins, which the laws of the southern states permit the hunters to pot, and of the bobolinks the black and white beauties whose full-throated song used to be heard, filling the air with melody in the meadows and fields, but which under the name of reed birds, are slaughtered in countless thousands for the markets in the South.

It is the purpose, backed by the efforts of the state officials and the Audubon society to secure, if possible, laws that are uniform and that will place a continuous check upon all the song and insectivorous birds in all of the states.

Should the bill become law, Representative Henry W. Osgood of Pittsfield has been prominently mentioned as the only logical candidate for the office. Probably no man in the state is better posted in regard to the habits of or is a greater lover of the wild life of the woods and fields than he.

An ardent sportsman since early boyhood, he has tramped the woods and fields and has learned from observation the haunts of the birds and the calls at nesting and at flight time as their food and habits are an open book to him.

Aside from his extensive acquaintance with ornithologists and bird lovers in other states, among whom he is a recognized authority, make him, it is said among those who have given the situation thought, the logical man for the place.

Woman Suffrage and Rum.

Joseph Reinach, a member of the French Chamber of Deputies, and a "temperance reformer," has declared himself an advocate of woman suffrage because only by the votes of women can alcoholism, which he calls "the national peril," be checked. M. Reinach, however, holds out some hope to men who may regard woman suffrage, too, as a national peril. Let them vote for "anti-alcohol laws, limiting licenses, prohibiting absinthe, and suppressing distillers' privileges." Then, if they think as Dr. Clemenceau thinks, that voting women would take the French nation back to the Middle Ages, they can save their country from two evils at once. Few, we fancy, will agree with the views of either of the two eminent Frenchmen. Prohibition makes great headway in the United States without the votes of women, though not without their influence, yet alcoholism is not only a national evil but a local evil in prohibition States. A prohibitionist map of Missouri shows that less than one-third of the counties in that old Bourbon State are still "wet." The States which have adopted prohibition cling to it. The votes of both sexes would accomplish no more in this way than the votes of men alone. But prohibition means of it. Dr. Clemenceau's idea that voting women suffrage ever go far to reform human character. On the contrary, its evil effects might offset any good accomplished by means of it. Dr. Clemenceau's idea that voting women would turn back the hands of the clock is not quite intelligible. It needs explanation. But woman suffrage would not assuredly hasten the coming of the millennium. Things would go on pretty much as they have been going, except that women would be in danger of losing much of the courtesy and protection now extended to them by men, and the cost of elections would be doubled.—New York Times.

Income Tax Absurdities.

No matter what may be the individual attitude toward the income tax as a simple proposition, the section of the new tariff bill which embodies this employment of a war-time measure in the midst of peace is full of absurdities, which, it is to be hoped, will be eliminated before the bill reaches the White House. The requirement that employers shall withhold from employees the proportion of salaries required to be paid as income tax, and thus become responsible for their employes' compliance with the law, is open to great objection. It infers that the employe is not himself sufficiently honest or responsible to take care of his own relation to the taxing power, and thus does serious injustice to a large class of salaried people. The man who is capable of earning as a salaried employee more than $4000 a year is usually a man of principle and responsibility, quite as capable of dealing fairly with the Government as the man who draws his income from stocks and bonds or a personal share in a business. The assumed necessity of providing for the investigation of questionable returns show how much of an invasion of private affairs this tax will allow. Its enforcement will be a source of scandal and annoyance and doubtless of much unfairness. It will encourage evasion and subterfuge and the withdrawal of funds from healthy enterprises to take advantage of the special classes of investment which are exempted. In its train will come many evils of a serious nature. It involves a more serious menace to the party assessing it than any other governmental measure in contemplation.—Baltimore Star (Rep.)

Made in America.

A plaintive wail comes from the Canadian manufacturers Association because United States manufacturers are using a "Made in America" label. The mouthpiece of the Canadians in its issue of this week says:

"Why should a manufacturer located in the United States label his goods 'Made in America'? A German manufacturer does not label his goods 'Made in Europe,' but 'Made in Germany.' The Canadian manufacturer, the Mexican manufacturer, the Brazilian manufacturer, or the Argentine manufacturer has as much right as the United States manufacturer to label his goods 'Made in America.' If the manufacturers of the United States are ashamed of the name of their country they should petition their government to change it, instead of masquerading under a title which is the common property of a score of nations."

Such an utterance from our neighbor across the border seems to be a decided case of sour grapes; but will have no weight with our manufacturers, who have incurred their displeasure.

Our neighboring states of Massachusetts and Maine are today observing Patriots' Day. We however shall expect all of the residents of the Granite State to observe that time honored custom of Fast Day on Thursday next.

Memory of Old Battleship Maine Perpetuated By Medals Made of Metal From Wrecked Hulk.

The first memorial tablet to be made from metal recovered from the wreck of the old battleship Maine was completed recently and was sent to Raleigh, N. C., the home of the secretary of the navy. By a special act of congress the secretary of the navy and the secretary of war have authority to donate the Maine memorial tablets to unmounted pillars, naval and military societies and any officer or enlisted man who ever served on the ship. It is estimated that about 2,000 tablets, each 13 by 18 inches in size and weighing about fifteen pounds, can be made from the brass, bronze and copper recovered from the wreck. The illustration here shows the winding design for the memorial tablets and the sculptor, Charles Koch of New York. On the shield are the inscriptions "Patriotism" and "Devotion." Just above the woman's extended arm is inscribed "In Memoriam." The inscription below the arm is "U. S. S. Maine, Destroyed in Havana Harbor Feb. 15, 1898." This illustration was made from a plaster cast of the original design, which is copyrighted by Koch.

PREDICTS INDUSTRIAL DEPRESSIONS

Senator Gallinger Also Says
Democratic Party Will Meet Defeat Two Years Hence.

Concord, April 18. United States Senator Jacob H. Gallinger in a clear-cut and pointed statement tells what India will be the effect of the Underwood tariff bill upon the industry of New England. He predicts industrial depression and lower wages and says that the democratic party will meet defeat two years hence, and that tariff legislation along the lines of the Underwood bill under the election of a democratic president in 1916 absolutely tort of the question. Senator Gallinger said:

"The proposed tariff legislation of the democratic party, as embodied in House Bill No. 10, introduced by Mr. Underwood on the 7th day of April, cannot fail to strike a severe blow at the prosperity of New England. The experiment of free wool and reduced duty on the manufacture of wool was tried by Mr. Cleveland, the result of which was to place a very considerable proportion of the woolen mills of our section of the country, and there is no reason to believe that a different result will follow in the event of the proposed legislation being enacted. The reduced duties on the manufactures of cotton, including hosiery, will unquestionably cripple many manufacturing establishments in the New England states, particularly those engaged in the manufacture of the finer grades of cotton goods, hosiery especially.

"The placing of agricultural products largely on the free list will also tend to injure the farmers of the states bordering on Canada. In cases where manufactured products are not placed absolutely on the free list disastroous results may have been made all along the line. As an illustration, the duty on hay is reduced from four dollars to two dollars per ton, eggs from five cents per dozen to two cents per dozen, and butter from six cents to three cents per pound. Potatoes, which under the Payne-Aldrich bill were protected by a duty of twenty-five cents per hundred bushel, will under the existing law be protected by a duty of two cents per gallon, and cream five cents per gallon, are all placed on the free list, and so on through the entire list of agricultural products.

"One of the hardest blows that New England will receive is in Schedule C, Metals and Manufactures of Metals, which will affect hundreds of small establishments engaged in the manufacture of various articles. In this schedule the manufacture of axle bars, forgings for axles, etc., the duty has been largely reduced, as also the duty on card clothing, cutlery in its various forms, needles for knitting and sewing machines, steam engines, steam locomotives, etc. In fact, the cut in this schedule affects every small metal industry in the industrial states. A striking illustration of the folly of the proposed legislation is seen in the reduction of duty on hatch needles, which are manufactured to a considerable extent in New Hampshire. Factories for the manufacture existing in Manchester, Laconia, Franklin and Hill, which industry is in sharp competition with Germany at the present time. The duty on hatch needles under existing law is $1.15 per thousand and thirty-five per cent ad valorem, while under the Underwood bill the specific duty is entirely removed, and only twenty-five per cent ad valorem is allowed. That means that industry will be literally blotted out, and that Germany will supply our market with that product.

"What is true of New England is equally true of all sections of the industrial North, hundreds and hundreds of manufacturing establishments being threatened with entire extinction. It is not to be wondered at that there is already throughout the country a storm of protest against the proposed legislation, and as President Wilson has announced his determination to have the bill passed substantially as it now stands there seems to be no hope of escape from the disasters that will follow its enactment. From my point of view this means industrial depression throughout the country, the loss of employment to a very large extent—the reduction of wages wherever that can be accomplished, and a political upheaval that will drive the democratic party from power at the first opportunity. I predict that the next house of representatives will be republican, and that the election of a democratic president in 1916 is utterly out of the question. It is true that the present tremendous prosperity that the democratic party has inherited from the republican administration that has just gone out of power may somewhat postpone the evil day, but it is inconceivable that under a tariff law such as is proposed the country can escape tremendous industrial depression before the term of President Wilson comes to an end. The striking difference between the tariff act of 1909 and the proposed tariff legislation as embodied in the Underwood bill is tersely and eloquently expressed in the titles of the two bills. The Payne-Aldrich law is entitled "An act to provide revenue, equalize duties and encourage the industries of the United States," while the Underwood bill is entitled "A bill to reduce tariff duties and to provide revenue for the government." It will thus be seen that the Underwood bill does not pretend to encourage the industries of the United States, which are expected to take care of themselves without reference to differences in labor cost between this country and the countries of Europe. In his address to the Senate and House of representatives at the opening of the present session President Wilson stated the matter in the following words: "The sooner that is done our men of business will be free to thrive by the law of nature instead of by the law of legislation and artificial arrangement." He again said: "We must abolish everything that bears even the semblance of privilege, or of any kind of artificial advantage, and put our business men and producers under the stimulation of a constant necessity to be efficient, economical and enterprising, masters of competitive supremacy." He further declared that "The object of the tariff duties herefore laid must be effective competition, the whetting of American wits by contact with the wits of the rest of the world." It will be observed that the democratic idea is to entirely leave the fact that we are paying in this country relatively twice the rate of wages that are paid in England and Germany. Under those circumstances how absurd it is to say that American wit can compete with English and German wit in the manufacture of the goods that are consumed by the people of the United States. But one of two results must necessarily follow when this proposed legislation becomes effective: Either we must reduce our wages approximately to the standard of wages paid abroad or else our industrial establishments must surrender, and permit England, Germany and other European countries to supply our people with manufactured goods. But the people of New Hampshire voted for that last November, the folly of which they will soon experience."

PORTSMOUTH TRUST & GUARANTEE CO.

Adopts Finger Print Method.

Greatest Known Safeguard and Insurance for Patrons Against Fraud or Forgery, Say Officials.

Means of Identification Endorsed by American Bankers' Association, Because of Its Certainty, Does Away with Witnesses for Iliterate Depositors. Protects the Accounts of Children and Greatly Facilitates Work of Bank Officials.

By the adoption of the Finger Print Method of Identification, the Portsmouth Trust & Guarantee Co. of this city has proved its right to a place among the most progressive banks of the country. At a recent convention, the American Bankers' Association heartily endorsed the Finger Print Method and is urging its use. Fully alive to the possibilities of the method, the Portsmouth Trust & Guarantee Co. has purchased a "Y and E" Finger Print outfit from Yawman and Erbe Mfg. Co. of Rochester, N. Y., the world's largest makers of Filing Systems and Identification Equipment.

The value of the Finger Print Method is not limited to any one class of depositors. It affords protection and convenience to all. It protects absolutely against forgery or fraud, whether the depositor be the owner of a checking account or a foreigner who cannot even write his name.

This method of identification is simple and efficient, being based on the fact that no two persons have exactly the same markings on the skin of their fingers, and that the markings of an individual's finger tips do not change in character from infancy to old age. If a cut or burn leaves a scar, the finger print becomes even more impossible to counterfeit. If no scar is left, the new skin bears identically the same markings as the old.

This shows the kind of impression that is quickly secured with the new outfit purchased by the Portsmouth Trust & Guarantee Co. No two prints in the whole world are alike.

The Finger Print System of Identification, in use by Police Departments and Prisons all over the world, is based on this fact.

How It Protects Depositors.
A bulletin issued by the American Bankers' Association cites one of many instances where the Finger Print Method has proved its value.

The incident occurred in Syracuse, N. Y. The Onondaga County Savings Bank of that city, one of the best banking institutions in Central New York, adopted the Finger Print Method, some time ago and requires all persons who cannot write their names to register their finger prints.

It seems that one morning not very long ago, shortly after the bank opened for business, a man by the name of Frank Perris, an illiterate depositor, came to the bank and reported that his bank book had been lost or stolen. His finger prints were taken and corresponded with those on file, so the bank official knew that the man really was Frank Perris, and his notice of loss was accepted.

A little while later, the book which had been reported lost was presented by another man who also claimed to be Frank Perris. This man demanded $286 upon the account, which was all but $5 of the entire amount credited to the depositor. When questioned, he stated that he needed the money in starting a business. His finger prints were taken and showed a marked difference from those upon the signature card. This difference was immediately noticed by the Teller, so he ushered the man into the Treasurer's office. A number of test questions were put to the man and answered correctly in every case. Without the slightest hesitation, he gave an accurate history of the account from memory, item by item. His replies were given in broken English, but were so absolutely convincing that had it not been for the finger prints the money would have been handed over, and another fraud would have been perpetrated.

However, the difference in the finger prints was not to be denied. The prints constituted a mute witness to the fraud. A Police Officer was called and the man was removed to Police Headquarters. He was there further questioned by an Indian Interpreter, who after explaining the absolute evidence against him, secured a confession from the prisoner that he was not Frank Perris, the depositor, but his brother Dominic.

That is a typical instance where the Finger Print Method was the only thing that prevented the loss of a large sum of money.

Used for Signing Checks.

Many owners of checking accounts have welcomed the introduction of the Finger Print Method. It takes but a second to place finger prints at the bottom of a check, in addition to the usual signature, and makes forgery absolutely impossible. In other cities owners of checking accounts have secured "Y and E" outfit like that used by the Portsmouth Trust & Guarantee Co., as they find it takes practically no time at all to register their finger prints on their checks when the right outfit is used. It is certain a box at all stores.

that may checking account owners of this city will see the value of the method and signify their desire that no money shall be paid to their order unless the check bears their finger prints.

Show the three fingers of which impressions are made.

There are a great many persons in every city who cannot write the English language, and to them this new method will indeed be a boon. Under the old regime, the depositor must make his mark, and that mark must be witnessed by two persons known to the bank. Such witnesses are not always easy to obtain. The resulting delay is aggravating to all parties concerned.

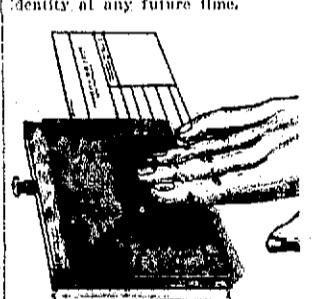

To make a finger print impression on a card, on the other hand, requires but a half minute, including the removal of ink from the fingers.

In closing up the affairs of the Chippewa State Bank of White Earth, Minn., discontinued by the Banking Department of that State last February, Kelley S. Chase, head of the Department, found that the depositors, mostly Indians from the Reservation, had used thumb marks for identification purposes, as they couldn't write, in most cases. In every instance the imprint served its purpose, and there was no duplication by different thumbs.

Mr. Chase was so much impressed, that he is thinking of asking the Legislature to consider introducing the system in the banks.

Many customers of the Portsmouth Trust & Guarantee Co. have come to this country from foreign countries during recent years and still sign their names according to the customs of their respective fatherlands. To this class of depositors the Finger Print Method will be particularly welcome; it will also be a great help to the bank, as these people may sign their names according to the script of their mother countries, but will, in a short time, learn to write their names in English, so that, without the Finger Print Method, confusion is certain.

For the same reason, this method will be very popular in the case of children. Children's signatures often change completely in a year or two, but finger prints never change. If finger prints of youthful depositors are taken at the time the account is opened, there can be no question about the identity at any future time.

The index, middle and ring fingers of the right hand are placed upon the linked steel plate.

The accompanying illustrations will show how easy and expeditious is the method. The outfit is contained in a mahogany finished case and includes a light polished steel plate, which is fitted with a rubber roller. The ink is specially prepared and is evenly distributed always. It is made in such a way that it dries very quickly. The depositor places the index, middle and third fingers of the right hand upon the linked steel plate. The fingers are quickly redrawn and pressed gently on the signature card. The operation takes less time than the telling of a story. Depositors in other cities where the Finger Print Method is in use, have taken very kindly to it, and it seems certain that the Portsmouth Trust & Guarantee Co. depositors will feel the same way.

Comparative Digestibility of Food

Made with different Baking Powders

From a Series of Elaborate Chemical Tests:

An equal quantity of bread (biscuit) was made with each of three different kinds of baking powder—cream of tartar, phosphate, and alum—and submitted separately to the action of the digestive fluid, each for the same length of time.

Bread made with Royal Cream of Tartar Powder:

100 Per Cent. Digested

Bread made with phosphate powder:

68½ Per Cent. Digested

Bread made with alum powder:

67½ Per Cent. Digested

These tests, which are absolutely reliable and unprejudiced, make plain a fact of great importance to everyone: Food raised with Royal, a cream of tartar Baking Powder, is shown to be entirely digestible, while the alum and phosphate powders are found to largely retard the digestion of the food made from them.

Undigested food is not only wasted food, but it is the source of very many bodily ailments.

Beckford of Laconia and other grand officers are expected to be present. The degree staff of Osgood Lodge will work the initiatory degree on this occasion.

JAPANESE PEOPLE ARE RISING AGAINST U. S.

California Bill Cause of All Trouble --Lower Classes Demand War.

Tokio, April 18.—The situation brought about by the California alien land holding bill is becoming increasingly serious. A mass meeting today, composed for the most part of irresponsible persons, demanded the most extreme measures of retaliation by Japan. During the gathering the singing of war songs aroused the feelings of many of the lower classes who were present.

Anonymous writers in the newspaper pers give an outline of plans for the seizure of the Philippines and Hawaii and at the same time denounce the Japanese Government's submissive attitude.

It is said that the changed conditions in Japan make it impossible for the Government to restrain the newspapers and the lower classes.

On the other hand, Government clerks are showing a friendly spirit.

tary of the International Committee of the Young Men's Christian Association, were the guests today at a luncheon given by Baron Nobuyuki Makino, the Foreign Minister, at which some of the most prominent Japanese and Americans were present. A very cordial feeling prevailed.

Shortly after the luncheon, Messrs. Mabie, Peabody and Mott and a number of representative Japanese Christians and Americans met at the residence of Count Shigenobu Okuma, formerly Premier and Minister of Foreign Affairs. Count Okuma delivered a speech in which he said that diplomats, the courts and commercial men were helpless and that only the influence of Christianity remained. Otherwise, he declared, war was impending.

Mr. Mott, in reply, agreed that the influence of Christianity now was superlative.

Dispatches were sent by the messenger to President Wilson and others, imploring them to use all their influence on Christians and thoughtful people to avoid a calamity.

California Movement Dangerous.

The Japanese Government considers the present anti-Japanese movement in California as extremely dangerous, and is faced with the prospect of placing itself in an awkward position owing to the unwillingness of the Government at Washington to intervene and the impossibility of introducing counter measures here.

In the event of the enactment of the California alien land holding bill Japan will issue an imperial ordinance enforcing the Japanese foreign land ownership bill of 1910, and will apply to the Government at Washington for permission for the Japanese to become naturalized citizens of the United States.

At a great mass meeting of protest held here last night, there was a hysterical anti-American outburst. Deputy Matsunaga urged the dispatch of a Japanese fleet to California as a first step toward establishing Japan on an absolutely equal footing in the United States.

M. Miyake, an editor of the Japan Times, declared that Japan deplored the constant visits here of American peacekeepers when their own country was in urgent need of the principles of justice and humanity.

Other orators insisted that the question between Japan and America had better be settled now, once and for all, otherwise their constant recurrence would lead at last to the arbitrament of war.

Twenty thousand people listened to the remarks of the firebrands, who apparently are engineering a campaign to mold public opinion in Japan.

A law which has both house and senate and awaits the signature of Governor Felzer will materially assist in making young people go home at a reasonable hour. The bill is entitled "To Protect the Youths of Our State" and it is really the old curfew law, but it is much more drastic and gives the police a good chance for enforcement and as soon as signed, it will be enforced here to the letter.

The smartest coat model in suits this season is the one with the soft or "British" roll lapel. While it is a "three button" coat the proper effect is given by using only two of them when buttoning, allowing the "roll" to cover the first button and buttonhole.

It requires expert tailoring to get the right "draping" in this model without which the idea is a failure and an eyesore.

In our Stein-Bloch suits this style reaches the highest degree of perfection—being the handiwork of the most expert craftsmen.
